Formerly the practice on engaging officials in England was to state the salary in sterling, and then pay in silver at the Government rate of exchange. It may be argued, and with much force, that officials engaged on this basis had a well founded grievance when the Government rate of exchange and the market rate began to diverge so widely. It is worthy of remark that since the time of Peter the Great only one ruler of Russia has died a natural death. Alexis, the son of Peter the Great, was killed by his own father. Peter Hongkong Fire Insurance Company's Shares-II. was the victim of a Palace conspiracy, as was the Empress Anne, who met her death by poison. Ivan I. was murdered in prison while still a child; Elizabeth was poisoned; Peter III. was strangled; Catherine II. died at 84 from the effects of old age; Paul I. was straugled; Alexander I. was poisoned; Nicholas I. committed suicide; while Alexander II, was blown up by dynamite. Time, only can show what will be the end of Alexander III.

The Toronto World, referring to the question of subsidising the Pacific Ocean Steamship Line, says .- "We do not need at this time of day to cite proofs of the fact that in these times foreign commercial rivalry is pushing Great Britain in markets abroad at places where formerly she had the trade all to herself. Now, by liberally subsidising the Pacific Ocean Steamship Line in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway, British commerce would have a right to the first advantages conferred by it. | China Sugar Refining Company, Limited-3143 which we are sure will be neither few nor small. Canadians have good reason to feel the heat of indignation coming over them when they conhome has been to do justice to Canada's latest the welfare of the mother country."

An Alabamian, who is worth 100,000 dollars to-day, was asked how he got his start when the Punjom and Sunghie Das Samantan Mining THE Desirable RESIDENCE known as war closed. "Do you mean what was the first | Company, Limited-Par. I headed across the country for Selma. When a house for dinner. It was a place owned by an old chap who did a heap of blowing to egg the Confederacy on, but had not gone to war himself. He wanted to charge me a dollar greenback for the meal. I offered him 20,000 dollars in -Confederate money. He got mad, and I said, Hongkong & Kowloon Wharf and Godown Co., 'Here, old man, is the money you helped to make, and I'm carrying around two bullets shot into Singapore Insurance Company, Limited-$18 SEAMAN'S CLUB. me in the war you helped bring on. out here! He came out, and I set to and gave Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 B—6 per cent. him the durndest licking an old fire-eater ever got, and when he hollered 'Enough!' I threw Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 C-8 per cent. the money into the fire and walked off. That's the first thing I did after the war, and that's Chinese Imperial Loan, 1886 E-51 per cent. what I date my prosperity from,"

A curious scene was witnessed the other day at the Vatican. M. Léo Taxil, whose real name is Jougand, formerly wrote some of the most "anti-clerical" works ever printed. According to his own account, while composing a distribe against Joan of Arc, he had to refer to the history of her trial and condemnation, and was so struck with the angelic character of the heroine that he felt himself suddenly converted to the very faith he was abusing. He proceeded instanter to Rome, to implore the Pope's forgiveness and blessing. His Holiness at once granted him a private audience, which lasted half an hour, during which he wept at the feet of the Holy Father. At length the Pope consented to give him his blessing on the condition that in his future works he would labour to undo all the harm he had done to the Catholic Church. M. Léo Taxil promised he would do his best, and departed. Before leaving, however, he had to make the piquant confession that CHINA COAST METEOROLOGICAL he had not yet been able to convert his wife, who remained a hardened atheist.

The Spectateur Militaire, quoting from a report made by the International Committee of the Red Cross Society, states that out of 33,101 of- STATION. 38 ficers and 1,113,254 rank-and-file of the German army who entered France in 1870-71, as many as 98,234 were killed or wounded. Of these 650 Haiphong 29,76 were disabled by bayonet-thrusts, 1,146 by the Hongkong 29,67 lance and sabre, and 96,437 by firearms. Of this latter category 91 per cent. fell by gunshot-wounds, and only 9 per cent. in consequence of artillery fire. The carnage was least at the following battles:—Sedan, where 3.08 per cent. of combatant strength fell; Le Mans, 2.4 per cent.; Amiens, 2.7 per cent. The most sanguinary engagement of the war was at Mars la Tour, where-16.8 per cent. succumbed. Comparing these lesses with those incurred in times when troops came to closer quarters, we find that the Prussians had 40 per cent. hors de combat at Kolin
Haiphong ..... 29.87,

In an article entitled "Mr. Gladstone and German Public Opinion," the Allgemeine Zeitung of Munich remarks :- "For about the last 18 months Mr. Gladstone has emitted no opportunity of declaring that, in the matter of the Irish questil he has the whole civilised world on his sig. . . . Well, as for us Germans at least, we should scarcely have one excuse in our favour did we lend Mr. Gladstone's present policy the moral aid which he seems to expect of us; for Euglish party hatred can neither carry us away nor blind us. From our countrymen in the United States we know what difficulties there, also, are thrown into the way of a prosperous, social, and political development of things by the Irish revolutionary element. On American as well as on its native soil it rebels against law and right, against labour and progress, and disavows all the responsibilities on which our civilisation reposes. Every policy which is calculated to justifust power to such people and their friends we must reject as disastrous. Transient differences of opinion may arise between England and Germany, and these have never been lacking whenever Mr. Gladstone was at the helm. But between Germany and the Irish revolution, with its appeal to the brute fanaticism of the masses, to plundering and murder, any misunderstanding is impossible."

Thus transfixed, and holding the weapon aloft, he strode swiftly up and down. Suddenly, at a signal, he fell on his knees, still forcing the point into his body, and keeping the wooden head uppermost. Then there started up another disciple armed with a big wooden mallet, and he, after a few preliminary tape, rising high on tiptos with uplifted weapon would with an appailing yell, bring it down with all his force upon the wooden knob, driving the point home through the shoulder of his comrade. Another seized an iron skewer, and placing the point within his open jaws, forced it steadily through his cheek until pretruded a couple of inches on the outside. DORTLAND CEMENT. THE NETHERLANDS FIRE Waiting He barked savagely like a dog, and foamed at the lips. Others, afflicted with exquisite spasms of hunger, knelt down before the chief, whimpering like children for food, and turning upon him imploring glances from their glazed and bloodshot eyes. His control over his following was supreme. Some he gratified, others he forbade. At a touch from him they were silent and relapsed into quiescence.
